

EXECUTIVE COACHING

For those of you who have “arrived.” Your business is a success by the high standards you have set for yourself. Above the expectations of others and yet, you find yourself stuck, maybe even disappointed that this is all there is to it.

You may feel like the practices and tools you used to become a success in business have missed the mark in creating fulfillment, maintaining personal relationships or expressing who you truly are.

The Executive Coaching program at Primeco Consulting is designed to transform the executive beyond success and give you the tools to re-invent yourself on-goingly. We will train you to create a future that pulls you forth and inspires you and those around you.

How it works

Our structure consists of one year of one-on-one coaching and consulting sessions for two hours a month. Together you and your coach will examine your core beliefs, your own authenticity, and what constitutes the foundation of your life.

You will develop a clear understanding of your values, vision and goals and utilize this understanding to generate breakthrough results, bringing you to new levels of self expression, inspiration and fulfillment.
